Late Breaking Trends - NC Senate
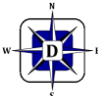

Partisan Political Advantage in 2010 General Election Races
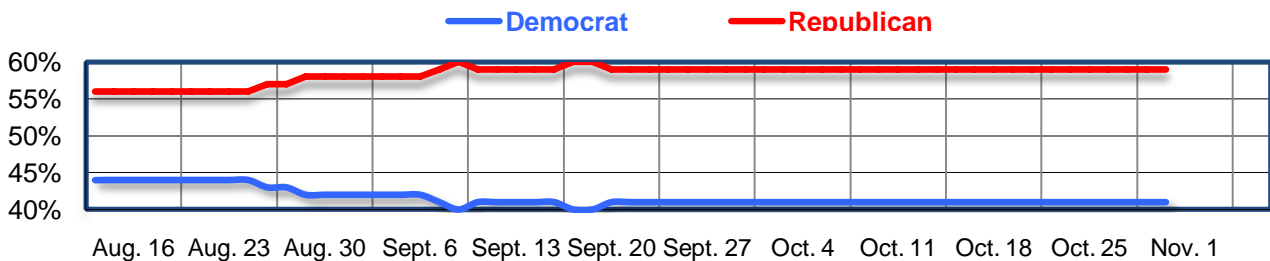

✅ Advantage Democrats   ✅ Advantage Republicans

Democrat Tally	938	Democratic %	41%
Republican Tally	1362	Republican %	59%

Updated 11/2/2010

		D	R
Econ Conditions - US	✅	35	65
Excellent/Good	13%
Poor	42%
Gallup	2-Nov

		D	R
Direction of USA	✅	33	67
Right Direction	31%
Wrong Track	64%
Real Clear Politics	2-Nov

		D	R
Direction of N Carolina	✅	34	66
Right Direction	25%
Wrong Track	57%
Civitas NC Poll	28-Oct

		D	R
Obama Approval US	✅	46	54
Approve	46%
Disapprove	49%
Real Clear Politics	2-Nov

		D	R
Cong Job Approval - US	✅	23	77
Approve	20%
Disapprove	74%
Real Clear Politics	2-Nov

		D	R
Generic Vote - US Cong	✅	45	55
Vote for Democrat	41%
Vote for Republican	51%
Real Clear Politics	2-Nov

		D	R
Obama Approval NC	✅	41	59
Approve	41%
Disapprove	56%
Pollster.com	2-Nov

		D	R
Indep Voters - NC	✅	35	65
Vote for Democrat	20%
Vote for Republican	51%
Public Policy Polling	2-Sep

		D	R
Voter Enthusiasm - US	✅	40	60
Democrats	28%
Republicans	47%
Gallup	22-Sep

		D	R
NC Sen Cash + Party $	✅	51	49
Democrats	$2.5
Republicans	$2.4
NCFEF	12-Aug

		D	R
Generic Vote - NC Legis	✅	46	54
Democratic	42%
Republican	50%
Public Policy Polling	1-Oct

		D	R
US Workforce	✅	43	57
Underemployed	18.0%
Employed	82.0%
Gallup	2-Nov

Late Breaking Trends is a selection of 12 key predictors of partisan political advantage updated daily by John Davis Political Report. In the algorithm, the value of "NC Sen Cash = Party $" is quadrupled. "Economic Conditions," "Obama Approval NC," and "US Workforce" are tripled; "Indep voters -US" and "Voter Enthusiasm - US" are doubled. Predictors are converted to 100-point scale.

Late Breaking Trends - NC Senate Partisan Political Advantage

—Democrat   —Republican